GREAT WORK IN MANUAL TRAINING IS BEING DONE

Supt. Wagner Submits Annual Report Showing Progress of Santa Fe Schools in Important Branch.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, April 18.—Superintendent J. H. Wagner yesterday made the annual report on manual training in the public schools of Santa Fe to Miss Margaret A. Myers, supervisor of industrial training for the state. He says among other things:

"Four years work is required in the Santa Fe public schools. One hour and a half each week is given by each pupil. This work may be elected after the first year high school for at least three years, making it possible for a pupil to get seven years of manual training if he so desires. The work begins in the sixth grade and consists principally of wood work although considerable metal work is done all along. In the early lessons the work is elemental and the soft woods are used principally. The lessons outlined are not complicated and the instructions are very explicit. From the first the pupil is made acquainted with peculiar properties of woods and the uses to which they are especially adapted. The tools are explained as to structure and composition and the training given in their use and care.

Education is Practical.

"As the work advances the lessons become more complicated and the problems more difficult. Great stress is laid on the work in placed on surfacing and finishing and the pupils have practice in decorating, choice of color and color schemes. The use of wood stains, fillers, and varnishes is explained. In the advanced grades, the boys are encouraged to make their own designs and blue prints and to make useful articles about the home in the way of furniture and equipment for the house and barn. Repair work is encouraged all along.

Our equipment consists of twelve benches, each equipped with two rapidly-acting vices and a set of tools for each bench. At these benches we are enabled to accommodate twenty-four boys at a time. The shop is equipped with one power hand saw and one power boring and drilling machine. Last year twenty-seven boys and girls learned a school garden. The land was furnished by the board of education, plowed, fertilized and made ready to plant. The boys and girls then planted and grew the garden and either marketed the crop or used it on home tables.

Domestic Science.

"The sewing in the Santa Fe public schools is all handwork with the exception of the work done in the eighth grade. The fourth grade pupils make doll buttonholes, sew on buttons and make simple aprons. In the fifth grade they learn the primary stitches and then apply them by making their dolls a suit of underwear. The fifth grade pupils make doll clothes before Christmas, then after Christmas they make a combination sewing apron and bag. The sixth grade pupils start with making sewing, then make their uniform for cooking, which consists of a hand towel, holder, apron and cap. The seventh grade pupils make a guest towel, then start with machine sewing. They make a full suit of underwear and a sleeveless apron.

The primary aim of the course in cooking is to teach the principles of the culinary art and the second aim is to teach cleanliness. There are two classes in cooking, the first year's class being composed of girls of the ninth grade. The girls are taught

NEW SCHOOLHOUSE TO BE BUILT AT CHIMAYO DURING THE SUMMER

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, April 18.—In the lap of the Blood of Christ mountains, on a fork of the Santa Cruz river, in northeastern Santa Fe county, nestles one of the most picturesque and most noted settlements in the entire southwest, Chimayo. It is here that the famous Chimayo blankets are woven and practically every household has its primitive loom and of late even the school room has been thus equipped and the children have been sending remarkably beautiful specimens of their weaving to the annual school exhibit at Santa Fe.

Yesterday, County School Superintendent John V. Conway completed arrangements with the school directors to erect a modern two-room school house during the coming summer to replace the present one room school house which was recently remodelled but has been doing service for many years. While adobe will also be the material for the new school house, it will be in Old-New Santa Fe style, will have two extra large class rooms, each with four big windows to the left and two windows to the back of the pupils. There will also be a manual training room, a domestic science room and a wide hallway. The adobe will be pebbledashed with cement.

The manual training room will be equipped with work bench, carpenter's tools and shelves for the materials. The domestic science room will have a loom, a sewing machine, a cook stove, a large sewing table and shelves for the work. The school site belongs to the district and the people will donate at least one-half the cost of the new building in cash and labor so that no bonds need to be issued. This makes fifty-four new school rooms thus built in Santa Fe county in the past fourteen months, of which fifty-two have been built in the past eight months, and each without incurring a dollar of bonded or any other kind of indebtedness.

The Chimayo school is in charge of Mrs. Magdalena Dominguez and has John Hyson Mission school in the same district has two teachers, most of the pupils, however, coming from that part of the settlement which is in Rio Arriba county.

Conway Warns School Directors.

Santa Fe, April 18.—County School Superintendent John V. Conway today issued peremptory orders to all rural school directors to "be careful not to issue the teacher's last warrant for salary until the teacher can show a receipt from the county school superintendent stating that all reports and inventories required by law and teachers' contract have been made and accepted." Says the order further: "It is the intention of the county superintendent to hold a conference with each board of school directors, early in May, for the purpose of making intelligent estimates of the funds needed to run the schools during the ensuing scholastic year. At this time the employment of teachers, and the contracts for furnishing fuel and other supplies will be discussed."

Fair Commissioners Named.

Santa Fe, April 18.—Governor McDonald yesterday appointed the following commissioners at large to the Panama-California exposition at San Diego: Miss Claude Albright, Albuquerque; Miss Sarah May Raynolds, Garrettsburg, and Miss Elizabeth Garrett of Las Vegas. All three are well known and have offered their services for concerts at the New Mexico building.

Sergeant Bechtel Promoted.

Santa Fe, April 18.—First Sergeant H. E. Bechtel of Company I, national guard of New Mexico, stationed at Deming, has been promoted to sergeant major of the third battalion of the First regiment.
